Profile

I am an architect and creator of immersive experiences. Since my university years, I've been transforming ideas into living spaces, starting from architectural visualizations for international clients and evolving to bespoke immersive applications, virtual tours, and large-scale art installations in recent years.

Experience

I have built worlds that transcend reality: from The Black Tower at Burning Man 2023 to the private immersive experience event called EverAfterTransylvania, in 2025 at Castle Bran. A successful ongoing collaboration with Tesseract Architecture has been running since 2018. Before that, between 2013-2018, I created digital maquettes at Vectuel and put the bases for my 3D skills.

Design Philosophy

My approach is real, honest, and anchored in the present, yet always open to exploring emerging technologies. I am defined by my ability to understand a client's vision, to see the bigger picture, and to lead diverse teams toward exceptional results.

Statement

I excel in challenge, thrive in exploration, and embrace calculated risks. For me, failure is not an endpoint but a powerful learning tool. I believe the most impactful experiences are born from courage, playfulness, and full engagement.
